Diversity and Its Discontents – A Study on the Professions

LAWYERS, PHYSICIANS, AND PROFESSORS: how do you feel about your career? Are there aspects that you like or dislike? Consider chatting about your experiences for a new research project about the professions!

As a society, we make a lot of assumptions about elite careers, but we don’t really know much about them. This project specifically examines the role of diversity in the professions, but will also explore the day-to-day lives of lawyers, physicians, and professors, more generally. This project will also make a bicoastal comparison to understand how region may affect job expectations and stressors. Ultimately, this study aims to better appreciate this particular segment of society (and of your job)!

You are:
- A current or former professor, doctor, or lawyer
- Working in the San Francisco Bay Area, or the New York Tri-State Area
- Age 55 or younger
- Have been working in your field for more than two years
- Interested in meeting and chatting about your job for about an hour

This project has been approved by the Institutional Review Board of the City University of New York. All information will be kept strictly confidential. Please feel free to contact me, Diana Pan, if interested (ypan@brooklyn.cuny.edu) – more than happy to provide more information, and answer questions.

--------
Yung-Yi Diana Pan
Associate Professor, Undergraduate Deputy Chair
Department of Sociology
3606 James Hall
Brooklyn College - City University of New York
718-951-5000 ext. 1776
Website: https://www.yungyidianapan.com